- Not sharing information learned and documents obtained at work for any reason with unauthorized persons and organizations whether inside or outside the company and not using these for speculative purposes (directly or indirectly).
- Not using the non-public information on companies they work for, their customers and the other persons and organizations they do business with for other than the intended purpose, and not sharing them with third parties without obtaining necessary permits. Not disclosing confidential information and documents of previous employers to Kontrolmatik or other employees and not requesting other employees to disclose such information.
- Without obtaining a written permit from the company, the personnel cannot accept official and private permanent paid or unpaid work outside the workplace. Regardless of whether the activity is included in the company's field of activity or not, the personnel cannot engage in an activity individually or with a partnership; personnel and his/her relatives up to third degree cannot enter into a partnership or any other relationship with other companies and businesses working in the same field of activity with the company, suppliers and our customers during their tenure in our company. This article will apply within the boundaries of Türkiye and for a 1 full year following the termination of the employment agreement of the personnel.

3.2. Avoiding conflicts of interest

A conflict of interest refers to a situation that affects or may affect the ability of employees to perform their duties impartially and all kinds of benefits provided to themselves, their relatives, friends or people or organizations with which they are in contact, and to have any material or personal interest in them.

3.2.1. Not making any transactions on his/her or relatives' favor

- Not obtaining unfair advantage on his/her, relatives' or third parties' favor using his/her title and authority.
- Taking care not to fall into a conflict of interest with Kontrolmatik.
- Taking care that personal investments or any activity outside work do not prevent the personnel from carrying out his/her current duties in terms of time and attention and avoiding such circumstances that prevent concentrating on primary duties from occurring.
- Informing the immediate superior in the event the employee and customer or people who are authorized to make primary decisions in the same business at the supplier company are relatives in the first degree.

- Employees are obliged to inform during recruitment in the event they hold shares in another company or contribute to their investments, which would be considered as a conflict of interest. This issue is especially questioned during job interviews to be held with candidates. The employees inform their senior officers regarding the changes that may occur in this situation as well as other issues that may be considered as a conflict of interest and the information is communicated to at least two senior officers.
- Informing his/her senior officer if the employee becomes aware that his/her first-degree relatives hold shares or have material benefit in another company we deal with.

3.2.2. Participation in representation and organization invites

- Approval of the Company is sought for participation in organizations and events that are effective in decision-making or that can be perceived as such, held by natural or legal persons whom we conduct business or have a potential to do so. The support activities held by Kontrolmatik (such as sponsorship and scholarship) are managed institutionally. No employee who has not been assigned can act on behalf of Kontrolmatik on these and similar issues.

3.2.3. Receiving and Offering Gifts

In the conduct of relations with natural or legal persons and organizations who want to establish or maintain business relations with Kontrolmatik, the following are expected from Kontrolmatik employees:

- Not accepting and offering a gift other than those given to stakeholders pursuant to principles determined by the Kontrolmatik management team in the new year and in special days, that could be perceived as an irregularity, cause dependency or that could be perceived as such,
- Not demanding any discounts or benefits from suppliers, dealers, authorized services, customers, group companies, or third parties, that could be considered inappropriate, not offering them to third parties and not accepting when offered.
- Not accepting cash or cash equivalent gifts regardless of their value or borrowing from suppliers, consultants, competitors, or customers.
- Not giving, accepting or offering any bribe and/or commission under any circumstances.

3.2.4. Leavers Doing Business with Kontrolmatik

By establishing a company or as a partner of another company after leaving employment with Kontrolmatik, providing services to Kontrolmatik as a vendor, contractor, consultant, agent, representative, dealer, or in similar ways is a very important issue that may cause negative perceptions and should be dealt with care.

In order to conduct business in this way;

- It is necessary to act in line with the interest of the company with the knowledge of the General Manager and comply with moral and ethical conduct while allowing no conflict of interest before and after the process.
- Not to have a disciplinary record in the company where the employee worked before,
- It is also necessary to have no conflict of interest due to the duties assumed by the employee in Kontrolmatik company where he/she has worked before.
- In the event of any inconvenience, no commercial relations should be established with the relevant person. Other than exceptional circumstances, such commercial relations should not be established with a former employee to prevent negative perceptions.

3.2.5. Insider Trading

- Being aware that insider trading, including gaining any interest for themselves and/or third parties by trading shares directly or indirectly on stock exchanges by using any confidential and/or non-public information belonging to the company or giving such information to third parties, is a legal offense and not attempting such actions.

4. EMPLOYEE HEALTH AND SAFETY

- Kontrolmatik satisfies all legal and other obligations regarding occupational health and safety and adopts the principle that occupational health/safety improvement activities are the common responsibility of all employees and uses the proactive occupational safety approach in all activities.
- Kontrolmatik aims to provide employee health and occupational safety in a complete manner at the workplace and on-the-job. Employees act in accordance with these rules and instructions and take necessary precautions.
- Employees cannot carry any items or substances that pose a danger to the workplace and/or employees or are illegal.
- Employees will not carry or use drugs or addictive substances as well as those that limit or eliminate mental or physical abilities in the workplace, except those validly prescribed by a doctor, and will not operate in the workplace under the influence of such substances.

5. PROHIBITION OF POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Kontrolmatik does not make donations to political parties, politicians or political candidates. Demonstrations, propaganda and similar activities are not allowed within the boundaries of the workplace. Company resources (equipment, computers, e-mail etc.) will not be allocated for activities with a political purpose.

6 ETHICAL CODE OF CONDUCT IMPLEMENTATION PRINCIPLES

6.1. Obligation to Report Violations

In the event employees become aware or suspect that laws, legislations, or rules governing the company are violated, they are obliged to report such violation to their immediate superior (direct manager) or communicate it to the Board of Ethics via e-mail (info@kontrolmatik.com) or in writing.

Disclosure of the report, which may adversely affect the peace of the person in the workplace or work relations, to third parties should be strictly prevented.

It should be ensured that the reporting mechanism is in the interest of the company.

The fact that the reporting person is free from intentions such as spreading a rumor about the subject of the report or adversely affecting his/her career is a very important aspect. In this respect; privacy, impartiality, and compliance with ethical rules are critical issues in the reporting and investigation process. Both the reporting person and the people who manage the reporting process should pay utmost attention and care to this issue.

Intentional reports that are false and/or defamatory are considered violations of ethical rules when they are detected.

6.2. Disciplinary Actions

Violations of the Ethical Code of Conduct will be punished with the following disciplinary actions:

- In the event there is intentional misconduct, disciplinary action up to termination of employment (according to the relevant articles of the labor law) will be taken and legal action, if necessary, will be taken.
- In the event of gaining an unfair advantage, the beneficial actions of the person in the past cannot constitute a partial or complete excuse for the decision taken.
- In the event there is no misconduct or there is an omission due to lack of attention or knowledge, a verbal or written warning will be given according to the impact of the incident. In the event there is no change in the process after the warning, termination procedures will be carried out in accordance with the articles of the relevant law.

6.3. Execution and Audit

- The execution of the ethical rules defined above which must be followed in all activities is managed by the Board of Ethics formed under Kontrolmatik. The Board of Ethics may appoint persons regarding its related activities and ensure that necessary measures are taken.
- Implementations and sanctions regarding Kontrolmatik's corporate policies are determined in the circulars and procedures related to Service Contracts and Kontrolmatik Personnel Regulations.

7. Obligation of reporting VIOLATIONS and ETHICAL PRINCIPLES REPORTING HOTLINE

Kontrolmatik employees should adopt the Ethical Principles and act in accordance with these principles while carrying out their duties/transactions. Employees are expected to consult their senior managers or the relevant human resources manager on Ethical Principles whenever necessary.

On the other hand, in the event of any doubt regarding the content of the Ethical Principles and/or when witnessing an illegal behavior or practice, the employees who want to consult or communicate an issue may:

- Send an e-mail to the Ethical Principles Reporting Hotline (etik@kontrolmatik.com)
- Call the Ethical Principles Reporting Hotline (+90 444 1 568) during working hours.

These reporting hotlines are only intended to receive reports on issues that are deemed to be inconsistent with the Ethical Principles. Activities of the Ethical Principles Hotline does not include customer or consumer complaints, suggestions, objections etc.

It is essential that the identities of employees/persons who send a report are kept confidential in line with legal and administrative requirements. Even though anonymous reports are also taken into consideration during the reporting of a violation, it is more beneficial to receive contact details in terms of the functioning of the process since they can be used to request additional information, provide feedback, and/or inform about the outcome of the investigation process.

Kontrolmatik is committed to protecting the rights of employees/persons who report violations. Retaliation against our employees due to their reports is prohibited and necessary actions will be taken against those who retaliate/attempt to retaliate.

We expect our employees to demonstrate a sense of responsibility and attitudes in line with business ethics, and to always act consistently in line with the meaning and purpose of the Ethical Principles. In this respect; with the aim to use our resources effectively and efficiently, to protect the reputation of Kontrolmatik or our employees, It is expected that no false reports will be made. The reports that are determined to be misleading will be removed from the process and employees who intentionally send such reports shall be sanctioned within the framework of the Disciplinary Regulations.

Such disciplinary actions will be applied to all employees and managers who approve or steer acts that violate Ethical Principles and break the rules, or those who do not send the necessary report despite having knowledge of such issues, and those who condone and allow such acts.

8. ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING, ANTI-BRIBERY and ANTI-CORRUPTION

Money laundering refers to transactions and activities in which individuals aim to hide, cover up, or disguise the quality, source, location, status, activity, and the owner of criminal proceeds or similar assets in order to cover their crimes or give a legal appearance to criminal proceeds.

At Kontrolmatik, we consider anti-money laundering, anti-terrorism financing, anti-corruption and fighting against similar crimes as important principles in line with the provisions of national and international legislation.

Our employees are obliged to act in accordance with the provisions of all applicable laws and regulations on money laundering and anti-corruption.

On the other hand, all kinds of corruption and bribery acts that hinder the reputation of Kontrolmatik and its employees are handled thoroughly and with care. Our employees are not allowed to enter the following transactions with our suppliers and partners, customers and consumers, competitors and other third party stakeholders:

- Demand to benefit from the special advantages and conditions granted to the company for their personal interests,

- Demand special privileges or discounts other than those offered to everyone,
- Request personal loans.

It is essential that all employees and third parties act on behalf of Kontrolmatik to show necessary care and attention, not to gain unfair advantage from individuals and organizations for any reason, not to offer, receive or give bribes or commissions and prevent such actions to the extent that they are aware of these actions. When faced with such an offer or there is an observation or doubt in this regard, the issue should be reported to the immediate manager and/or etik@kontrolmatik.com address.
